

Figure S2. Reproducibility of biological replicates. Regression statistics for independent biological replicates. Transposon density is the number of transposon insertions per kilobase, calculated independently for each ORF. Dval is the number of transposon insertions found in a given ORF versus the number expected based on the size of the ORF.